

Hej Olga,

pity you couldn't be there after all. It was a well attended meeting, me and five ladies. We saw the photographs of Holy Week, talked about differences in different religions, countries, and meanwhile listened to music (ancient music from monasteries, and more recent Spanish folk music related with processions, both religious and popular). And yes, we had a drink and something to eat as well:

my friend Déborah had brought salted cod from Spain (of course, from Lofoten), so I made a chick pea soup, with spinach, rice and the fish (soaked in water 24 hours to make it less salty), and also special bread as to make 'torrijas', slices of bread soaked in milk, then passed through beaten egg, and finally fried in oil. Then covered with sugar syrup and sprinkled with a little cinnamon. In between we tasted a barrel aged white wine, and we finished with a semi sweet white wine...

So please be there next time!

Kindest regards,

Henny

Sounds you had a great evening :)) with a good music, food and wine, and great people!

I was thinking to come, but last minute there come some changes.

First of all I felt myself not the best way - on Friday me and Meeli went to some Italian place and I ordered some seafood and wine.

Have to say - it was long time since I drunk wine last. So maybe my body reacted to alcohol or maybe seafood, but i felt myself badly, so whole Saturday I was just drinking a lot of water.

Also this weekend I have moved - i decided to rent just a room from apartment from one lady.

i have moved all my things and also cleaned and so on. but already there are some small things which i do not like..

by the way she came into my room without knocking a door!! She said she was thinking i am not at home, i will see how it will function next weeks, if it does not - i already will start looking for another place, because private peace is a very important for me!

What are your plans for Easter? Do you have some days off? I work tomorrow and on Thursday I travel to my mother place in Jõhvi until Monday evening - i have some free days from work. I really hope the weather will be nice.

How you usually celebrate Easter? You prepare some specialities?
